INTEREST VARIES

IN STATE PRIMARY

Large Vote Will Be Cast in Some Counties and Small in Others.

LIQUOR FIGHT IN ROANOKE
 Anti-Saloon League Angers Candidate by Asking Him to Withdraw.

When the votes to be cast in Thursday's general election are canvassed, remarkable discrepancies in regard to the percentage of qualified voters cast will be noticeable. It will be found that in some counties nearly the entire electorate was voted to the polls, while in others the vote is likely to be so small as to cause surprise.

This situation is due in the main to local contests. In a good many counties the Democrats have already made their nominations for county officers, either in early primaries or in conventions, while in others all these will be named, together with a large percentage of members of the Legislature, next Thursday. Local candidates will see to it that the voters turn out, and every effort will be made by the aspirants to attain this result.

On the other hand, the vote will be much smaller, with the exception of a few counties where some excitement has been aroused over the contests for the United States Senate.

Quiet in Southwest.
 Out in the Southwest, with its enormous number of electors, it appears that only the very slightest interest is being taken. A representative of the candidates went to that section and reported that there were no candidates there, and several speeches were made. Friends of the other two candidates have seen to it that many letters were written and much printed matter sent out. Yet the Southwest has more or less quietly waited for the row was about, and has turned over for another nap.

There are fights in every county, and the Democrats, as a result of the war waged last year by Henry C. Stuart in his campaign for Congress, hope to recapture many county officers and legislators from the Republicans. But this issue is to be settled in November, and the people hardly realize that there is to be a primary. Conventions are being held in many counties, and the candidates are being named.

Anti-Saloon League Buys.
 Perhaps one of the warmest fights for legislative honors, and one which will bring out a big vote in a large district, is that being waged for the nomination of the Fourth Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Roanoke and Radford, and the counties of Roanoke and Montgomery. The Anti-Saloon League has recently taken a hand there in matters outside of the liquor question, and has endeavored to secure the withdrawal of one of the candidates, Senator John M. Hart, who is being opposed by O. L. Stearnes, of Salem, and by W. L. Andrews, of Roanoke county. Senator Hart voted against the Strode encroachment on the last Legislature, and he has been a vocal opponent of the liquor traffic, and has been a vocal opponent of the liquor traffic, and has been a vocal opponent of the liquor traffic.

Senator Hart's speech in which he referred to "long-haired men and short-haired women" as his advocates. For this, the Anti-Saloon League is vigorously opposing him.

That the vote in opposition to Mr. Hart will be split between Mr. Stearnes and Mr. Andrews, both of whom favor a referendum on the liquor question, the executive committee of the Roanoke Anti-Saloon League wrote Mr. Stearnes, asking him to withdraw in favor of Mr. Andrews, and thus insure Senator Hart's defeat. In the letter, the league announced Senator Hart not only for his vote on the Strode bill, but also for having "actively supported Joel H. Cutchin and Harry Myers, the gamblers," and for having "indorsed and supported Harry Myers, the gambler, 'the fixer,' for a place on the Democratic State Committee."

Mr. Stearnes, feeling he is stronger than Mr. Andrews, has refused to withdraw, and here seems to be a breach between the league and Mr. Stearnes. Senator Hart has denied that his relations with Myers extended beyond those of a lawyer, and client, and says he does not believe Myers is a gambler. It is stated that Myers will give the league an opportunity to prove its charges against him.

Strode in Fight.
 Another hot fight, which is destined to result in a big vote, is that between Senator Aubrey Strode and former Senator Iland Massey, in the Nineteenth District, composed of the counties of Amherst and Nelson. Not only is the liquor question playing a prominent part in this contest, but in addition it is drawn as between the candidates for the Virginia Senate, for Mr. Strode is giving his outspoken support to Mr. Jones.

It is such fights as these which will tend to bring out a big vote, even in those counties where no local officers are to be nominated. In view of the fact that the local lines in most places are being drawn over the senatorships, old county factions lining up on one side or the other, the situation in Roanoke and the counties is regarded as peculiar. To all appearances all the factions there, are lined up.

Auction Sales, Future Days.
 By N. W. Howe & Son, Real Estate Auctioneers.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF DWELLING NO. 1226 WEST CARY STREET, AND ADJOINING VACANT LOT AND A VACANT LOT IN THE REAR, ON THE EAST SIDE OF SHORT STREET.

In execution of a deed of trust, dated August 1, 1907, recorded in the Chancery Court of the City of Richmond, in D. B. 198-A, page 202, I will sell by auction, on the premises, on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1911, at 5 o'clock P. M., the desirable property above referred to.

The dwelling has seven good rooms, and is located on the street corner. It will make a most comfortable home, or a good investment proposition. The lots, both on Cary Street and on Short, can be advantageously improved and made to pay.

This property will be sold either as a whole or in three subdivisions, as to the terms of sale will appear best at the time of sale.

TERMS: Cash.

STUART BOWE, Trustee.

N. B.—The auctioneers are prepared to loan on the property a very large portion of the purchase money for a term of years.

ANOTHER BONUS VOTE

OFFER ON THIS WEEK

Last Special Vote Offer That Will Be Made During the Contest—Every Possible Subscription Should Be Turned In This Week.

Another opportunity well worth being taken advantage of by every citizen who is on the job, the second and last bonus offer, is on this week, starting this morning and ending Saturday night.

As was announced with the other bonus vote offer, there would be no time during the contest when so many votes could be secured on subscriptions as during this time. Contestants who were well taken advantage of that statement and secured every possible subscription. That they proved by doing so has and will be further demonstrated when the contest closes.

This bonus offer is of the same nature as the other, except that only 10,000 extra votes are to be given with every $25 worth of subscriptions turned in.

This is absolutely the last special offer of any kind that will be made and no more special prizes will be given, so contestants who have been holding back their efforts for the best of the contest should get in their subscriptions while they have an opportunity to get extra votes.

Only two weeks and a few days are left until the contest closes, and that means that every minute of the remaining time will be given with every vote by contestants who are really in the race.

On every side is speculation as to who the winners will be at the close. No one knows. Many things can and will happen between now and the close of the contest. A few subscriptions make wonderful differences in the list of standing, as has already been demonstrated by several contestants, who have as the result of a few days' work jumped from the bottom of the list to a place among the leaders.

There is only one way for contestants to do, and that is to keep right on at it until the last minute. One or two subscriptions might change the entire results at the finish. If you want to be on the safe side secure every one possible, and then you will at least have the satisfaction of having done your best. The ones who are going to regret not doing this are those who will see at the last minute that they had underestimated the strength of some other contestant who has taken the honors by a small margin. Then they will look back at what might have been and wish they had gone after the other subscriptions that would have won out. But it is then too late.

Do it now, boys and girls! Strengthen your standings just as much as you can. You might think now that you have enough. Perhaps you may have and perhaps you may not, but it is always best to be on the safe side. We want to say this much as a positive fact, there is going to be a lively fight right up to the last, and any one who thinks he has the winning vote now had better think again and start to work.

Surprises there will be every few days from now on. Contestants who have been quietly saving up and not saying much will suddenly appear in the limelight and be in the fight at the finish. First one will lead the list and then another. Thousands of votes will pour in on every side, and there will be plenty of excitement for all interested in the race.

The winner of the watch, for having turned in the greatest amount of money on subscriptions last week, will be announced to-morrow morning. The list of standings will be published again on Thursday.

though bitter as to local matters, are supporting Senators Martin and Swanson. The Republican paper in Harrisonburg comments on this strange situation, being unable to understand why one faction or the other has not taken the cause of Mr. Jones and Mr. Glass.

DEPARTMENT NERVOUS OVER WILEY DISPUTE
 Agriculture Employees Upset by the Conflict in Authority.

Washington, D. C., September 3.—Discontent and demoralization in the Agricultural Department are following close on the upheaval over the attempt to oust Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry. Officially, of course, this is not admitted, but this is the tenor of stories told by employees in the department.

The situation in the Department of Agriculture is described by insiders as much like that which prevailed in the Interior Department for a time when the excitement over the Ballinger case was at its height and when Ballinger was declaring his intention to "kill" the Interior Department.
